

THREAT OF VILLA STIRS UP BORDER; RIOTERS CURBED

American Refugees Flock to El Paso, Now Under Military Rule; Bandit Bands Active.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 14.—The reported threat of Gen. Villa that he would kill any American traveling west of Chihuahua City again stirred up the border with that had cooled down some since last night's riots. The military is on guard and it is hoped to prevent further disorders.

Villa is said to have made his threat against Americans while supplying himself and his followers with meat at El Paso last week.

Order Americans Out. As a result of this stand by the bandit chief, American Consul Edwards at Juarez has received orders from Secretary Lansing to notify American consuls and consular agents in Mexico, including those at Torreon and Chihuahua, to urge their nationals to leave northern Mexico and to communicate this order to the foreign consuls in this city.

Pick Up Two U. S. Soldiers. Fifty-two Americans, including a number of women and children, arrived here tonight from Chihuahua City. More than 30 Americans still remain in what is considered the danger zone.

The latter, it was hoped, would reach American territory aboard a special train today on a train sent from El Paso last night, which is now at Paria.

Out again on American soil, the refugees were whisked into motor cars by waiting friends and the majority of them hurried to bed.

All the employees of the American Smelter and Refining company from the Chihuahua smelter and the employees of the El Paso company came on the train, as well as many men, women, and children, foreign residents of Chihuahua City.

The security of troops at the Chihuahua state capital was confirmed by arrivals, who said that only 200 Carranza men were there.

Marion Back on Streets. Mexicans, who for the sake of safety were required to stay within doors last night during the demonstrations resulting from the murder of Americans by Villa bandits at Madera last Monday, appeared on the streets today in numbers. Many of them were of the "Cienfuegos" element.

Two States soldiers still patrol the quiescent martial law in practically all parts. There were no disorders during the day, and up to a late hour tonight the quiet remained quiet.

Plans for a mass meeting here by Americans to discuss the situation were reported on the orders of Mayor Tom Lea. It was decided that no meeting would be held until trains sent south to bring Americans out of Mexico arrived safely at the American side of the border.

Continuation of the expedition of Gen. José Rodríguez by Col. Emilio Márquez were received, coupled with the statement that his body would be brought to Juarez for verification by Americans of the action of the Carranza government.

Villa Forces Active. Mail advices from Torreon brought details of the occupation of Gomez Palacio by the united commands of Calisto Contreras, Canuto Reyes and Pedro Moreno, Villa leaders, and other advices were that Gen. Argueta, at the head of a column of 1,000 men, had reached a point near Barrilobos. These advices are not confirmed.

Official report from Gen. Jacinto Trevino said bands of Villa bandits would be exterminated wherever found. While the Carranza consul stated no armed force could be permitted to enter Mexico to aid in the extermination of Villa bandits, it was rumored here that such a movement is being organized along the border.

It is declared if an invasion is attempted by United States soldiers will use force to prevent it if necessary.

Pershing Reports on Disorder. Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Following in Gen. Pershing's report sent last night to El Paso dispatchers:

"There was some disturbance in El Paso about 9:30 to 10 o'clock. A crowd of about 300 or 400 civilians, mostly from the saloons, which close at 9:30, gathered on the street and were joined by a small proportion of soldiers on pass.

As the crowd moved along several Mexicans whom they happened to meet are reported to have been beaten. The crowd was dispersed by the police and the provost marshal.

"This gathering was entirely without purpose and came as a complete surprise to both the police and provost marshal, who had reported everything quiet only a few minutes before.

"Two companies of infantry were immediately sent to the scene followed by others, but their services were not actually needed.

"There was nothing of the mob spirit in the crowd, but more of a carnival. I have directed that no soldiers be allowed in town except on duty until excitement subsides."

PUBLISHERS OF "MENACE" ACQUITTED; CHEER IN COURT. Boston, Mass., Jan. 14.—After deliberating about 7 o'clock last night a jury in the United States District court here today returned a verdict of not guilty in the case against the Menace Publishing company and Marvin Brown, Bruce Phelps, Walter F. Phelps, and Theodore C. Walker, owners and publishers of the Menace.

The government charged the defendants with sending obscene matter through the mails. Six counts of the indictment charged violation of postal laws and the seventh alleged obscene passages in the book "The Pope Chief of White Devils and High Priest of Intrigue."

The defense maintained that the prosecution was founded and was at the instigation of the Roman Catholic church and its priests. The verdict was greeted with cheers.

SCHOOL MOVIES FOES WIN AGAIN

Appeal to Council to Be Taken on Ordinance Beaten in Committee.

The fight to make possible the exhibition of moving pictures in schools and churches will be transferred to the floor of the city council. At the conclusion of the buildings committee session yesterday, at which the ordinance was placed on a vote of 7 to 6, Chairman George Pretzel announced he would prepare a minority report, recommending passage of the measure.

John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Victor Olander, secretary of the state federation, denounced the proposed ordinance as a menace to the safety of school children and church goers, while a committee representing the schools made an equally strong plea for its adoption.

How the Aldermen Voted. Aldermen Martin, Klaus, Smith, Powers, Miller, Dempsey, and W. J. Lynch voted to file the ordinance. Those opposed were McCormick, Kimball, Vanderbilt, Pettokake, Link, and Kennedy.

William M. Roberts, district superintendent of schools in charge of vocational training, said Superintendent John D. Shoop had endorsed the ordinance.

"Mr. Shoop has looked into the matter very carefully," he said, "and is of the opinion that the restrictions are such as to make the operation of the movie machines in the schools altogether safe."

Olander Fears Monopoly. Mr. Olander asserted the ordinance would create a practical monopoly for the Pathe company. He said he is informed that only the slow burning film and Pathe machine would meet the requirements. This was denied by Ald. Pretzel.

URGES GREATER NATIONAL GUARD

Cummins Would Create All Army Schools in Posts Not Used.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Cummins of Iowa today introduced two measures designed to give the United States a national guard of 300,000 men in time of war and sufficient trained officers to lead it.

In one of his bills Mr. Cummins provides for the conversion of six army posts now not needed for the use of the regular army into federal reserve schools with a four-year course. The instruction is to be of a character that will fit not only a military but a civil life.

In the other measure he proposes the reorganization of the national guard along lines suggested in the agreement reached between the war department and the representative of the guard two years ago.

Selection of Students. Under the Cummins army school bill students are to be selected in the same manner as students at West Point. Upon entering each one will take an obligation to go into active service at the request of the government, at any time before he reaches 40 years of age. Upon graduation, students take rank of second lieutenant in the regular army, but without duty or pay, unless needed in the event of war. While in civil life, however, they are compelled to serve as officers of the national guard if selected for those positions.

Changes Which Are Proposed. In speaking of his national guard measure, Senator Cummins said: "The important changes I have proposed are:

"1. The increase of the guard to 400,000 peace strength and 800,000 war strength.

"2. An enlistment for three years with no re-enlistment unless the enlisted man is promoted to a commissioned or non-commissioned officer.

"3. Trebling the time required to be spent in camp maneuver and rifle practice to perform police duty."

Reduction in Expenses. Senator Cummins said that the expense of carrying out his proposal would be much less than the combined expense of the national guard and continental army as proposed in the administration program.

Berlin Reduces Bread Allowance. BERLIN, via London, Jan. 14.—The municipality of Berlin has taken the lead in the reduction of bread allowance which were ordered recently by the central authorities in order only to accumulate a reserve supply, fifty grams per week.

Orders Them Both Shot. At the time they were seized Villa ordered both of them shot. I have private information that the sentence of death was not carried out. But it may be at any moment.

Villa is hostile himself. No one, not even Capt. C. S. Scobell, British consul, has been able to communicate with them.

Dickerson is married. His wife is in a stable state. She was hysterical all night and it is feared she may become seriously ill if she does not receive definite assurance of her husband's safety soon.

O'Callahan is a bachelor. George Brooks, mining engineer from Santa Eulalia, was taken from a train at the Central station at 5 o'clock last night. He was taken from jail to jail until midnight, when he finally was placed in the custody of Gen. Manuel Barrera, who is known here as "Villa's private killer."

There Brooks was allowed to communicate with his friends. He has been refused all information as to why he is held or what is going to be done with him.

Eight of the nine foreigners from the west, who were staying at the Hotel Robinson yesterday, were placed under arrest early today and marched to the Hotel Páez, where they are held under close guard with the other thirty-nine from Madera. Harry Oates, the ninth man, was allowed his liberty because he said he was a British subject.

Murders of the Chineses. On the following day, Dec. 30, MacGregor describes the departure of Villa from the city following a speech in which he declared he no longer would fight against his countrymen.

"I came today to tell you just one thing," said Villa in his speech. "I never will turn another cartridge against my countrymen. I am done with that."

"You, my friends of Mexico, have been betrayed. The government of the United States has given its powerful aid to Carranza, the traitor. I can do nothing more. Many of my high officers, men better educated, more skilled in the ways of the world than I, have deserted me. Some left for gold, some for political office, but most of them because they knew that under me they could not keep what they had stolen from the people. So today I stand alone. I will leave here. I will allow the Carranzistas to come in and take the city."

"Carranza Sold Mexico to U. S." But I tell you today that the Carranzistas are the advance guard of the gringos. The gringos, with their lust for gold and slaves, will follow them, for Carranza sold Mexico to the United States for the sake of recognition. And the day the gringos enter my country, men will call for Pancho Villa again. When that day comes I shall answer the call. And I shall have the cartridges.

"Where shall I go now? The owls of the mountains have their covens, and surely God will not deny less to Pancho Villa and those who have been faithful to him.

"Farewell, my countrymen, until you call for me."

The letter continues: "And in dead silence the short, squat figure left the platform, mounted a horse, and rode off. And fear came over the city like a blanket. Villa has quit. But what will he do to Chihuahua before he leaves for the mountains? Who will be the victims of his rage?"

Villa Officers Break Stores. "Villa officers, under the direction of Gen. Simón, just pointed out the city, today broke into the clothing stores of E. Daniels & Son and Fleishman Bros. and the saddlery of Smith & Townsend. The saddlery was cleaned out, but the clothing stores were not. They were looted by the Carranzistas, who were looting the clothing stores with the Carranzistas. Daniels and Fleishman, hitherto known as Americans, claimed, respectively, Russian and German citizenship.

"Eight Americans and one British subject arrived today from the western country. They came in without guard and now are at the Hotel Robinson, without guard, but declare they were told they would be killed if they did not leave the country."

The thirty-nine brought from Madera yesterday still are at the Palacio hotel, under close guard. Roy Hoard, manager of the Madera company, told today how Villa, revelling today from the western country, dictated a telegram to his mother in El Paso saying he would be shot unless the $30,000 demanded by Villa were paid by the Madera company at once.

Villa Seizes Americans. In his next letter, written Dec. 19, MacGregor tells of the seizure of Americans by Villa.

"Eleven more Americans," this letter opens, have been seized and placed in jail here by Gen. Villa.

"Two of them, C. O'Callahan, a mine owner, and W. Dickerson, owner of a candy factory here, were seized in a raid on the Carranzistas at Villa's own home. O'Callahan and Dickerson went to see Villa at 5 o'clock last night. Dickerson had business with Villa. O'Callahan, who is Villa's oldest friend here among the foreigners, went along to introduce Dickerson.

"It was impossible for the other foreigners in the city to find out what happened to O'Callahan and Dickerson until today. At the police station, at the court general, at the penitentiary, all knowledge of them was denied. It was planned that a committee should go to Villa's home this morning about their disappearance. All felt that Villa would comb the city to find his friend O'Callahan. Then like a thunderbolt came the news through which all around channels that they had been taken in Villa's own home.

WILSON REFUSES TO CHANGE POLICY TOUCHING MEXICO

President and His Cabinet Will Not Abandon Attitude of Watchful Waiting.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—President Wilson and his cabinet intend to stand by their watchful waiting policy in Mexico in spite of the fact that Senator Stone today informed them that there was a decided sentiment in the senate in favor of immediate intervention.

After the cabinet meeting today several of the president's advisers said that there would be no change in the policy unless congress takes action compelling the president to adopt a different course. The general opinion among administration leaders in congress is that another instance of the murder of Americans in Mexico will cause an upheaval in both houses that will result in the dispatch of the army across the Rio Grande.

Attitude Taken by Wilson. It was learned authoritatively today that this is the position assumed by President Wilson in regard to the latest phase of the Mexican problem.

By murdering Americans in Villa is seeking to precipitate American intervention in Mexico in a last desperate hope of working the overthrow of Carranza.

Armed intervention, with its attendant cost of blood and treasure, would not be warranted by the existing situation.

The employment of American troops in northwest Mexico, in cooperation with the Carranza forces against the Villistas would be likely to precipitate war. Because of the mountainous character of the country and the guerrilla character of the warfare it would be a hopeless task for the small American army to rout the Villistas from their strongholds.

Therefore, the wisest policy to pursue is to keep Americans out of portions of northwest Mexico not controlled by Carranza.

Carranza has demonstrated his good intentions by capturing and executing two of the generals responsible for the recent massacre.

President in a Grave Mood. Not since the crisis produced by the sinking of the Arabic last summer has the president appeared in a graver mood than at the moment today, according to one of the cabinet members. In opening the discussion Mr. Wilson betrayed deep emotion in regard to the fate of the nineteen Americans shot by the Villistas.

When he went into the White House much personal sympathy and indignation may be stirred by an outrage of this character, it is necessary to remember that official policy must be shaped impersonally and rationally with a view to conserving the best interests of the 100,000,000 people of the American nation.

The demands for intervention in Mexico the president ascribed to personal indignation. Sober second thought, he said, would convince any man, according to the American people, he believes, are opposed to any step that will precipitate war between the United States and Mexico. The aim of the administration, he stated, must be to procure security for Americans without resorting to intervention.

Carranza Pledges Action. Secretary of State Lansing brought to the cabinet meeting the personal telegram he had received from Carranza promising satisfaction for the outrage upon the Americans. The telegram follows:

"The murderous attack on the passenger train near Chihuahua was made by the only remaining band of outlaws in that region. This band is being actively pursued in order to insure its capture. Whereupon condign punishment, which their crime deserves, will be meted to every guilty participant.

POLL OF SENATE SHOWS SENTIMENT ON INTERVENTION.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—To test the sentiment in regard to intervention in Mexico, The Tribune correspondent today caused this question to be submitted to seventy senators.

"Do you believe that the continued slaughter of American citizens in Mexico warrants the use of armed force by the United States to protect the lives and property of American citizens in Mexico?"

Twenty-three senators—four Democrats and nineteen Republicans—answered this question in the affirmative. Twenty-eight senators—twenty-three Democrats and five Republicans—answered the question in the negative.

Nineteen senators—twelve Democrats and seven Republicans—recorded themselves as noncommittal.

The senators who favor the immediate employment of armed force to protect American citizens in Mexico are:

Gore (Okla.)
Lewis (Ill.)

REPUBLICANS.

VICTORIANO HUERTA'S BODY PLACED IN EL PASO VAULT.

Family Hopes Some Time to Take to Mexico City but Carranza Officials Say "Never."

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 14.—The body of Gen. Victoriano Huerta, former dictator of Mexico, who died yesterday, was placed temporarily in a vault here today.

There was no ceremony. That, said members of his family, would await the time when they could take the casket to the capital of his country. When Carranza officials were asked when that time might be, one replied:

"Not in a thousand years."

BLAMES WILSON FOR MURDERS BY BANDS IN MEXICO

Fall Attacks Policy of President, Saying It Has Spurred Outlaws to Revenge.

times cooperating with each other, were bitterly opposed to the recognition of the Carranza establishment and bitterly resentful because of it. The Villa forces were dispersed in large measure. Villa disappeared into the mountains of Chihuahua and Sonora, and is said to have a comparatively small band of some 300 men cooperating or in some way associating with him.

"Can we doubt for a moment that these people, who are now open and lawless bandits, roaming over the mountains and sweeping down upon the plains when opportunity offers, will commit depredations?"

No Time for Warfare. "Two or three days ago sixteen or eighteen Americans were murdered by these bandits. It is reported that since then two or three others have suffered the same fate. I do not know whether that is true. I would not be surprised if the men should commit other depredations if the opportunity comes."

But, Mr. President, it seems to me this is no time, least of all in the last five or six years, when we ought to endeavor to establish a government with arms, as we can, the Carranza government to establish itself firmly, to maintain its authority, to restore order, and to do all that a responsible government is expected to do. But it has been only a few weeks—six or eight weeks—since that government was recognized and in form established."

Asks Stand of President. At this point Senator Gallinger interrupted Senator Stone:

"Two days ago," said Senator Gallinger, "the senator from Missouri did me the honor to ask what I would do in connection with existing conditions in Mexico, and I answered as well as I could on the spur of the moment. The senator will remember the answer. Now, I think it but fair, inasmuch as the senator from Missouri is doubting in the fact of the recognition of Carranza and the administration, to ask him precisely what are the intentions of the president and his administration in reference to existing conditions. I think the country will be greatly interested if a direct answer can be given to my question."

"I am not the spokesman of the president," said Senator Stone. "He can speak for himself much better than I could speak for him."

Wants Congress to Act. At this point Senator Works took the floor and spoke in his resolution.

"Something should be done," Senator Works said, "in this emergency by some body to relieve the situation as it exists today. Americans are being killed in Mexico. Mexico day after day is the result of the conditions that prevail there at this time."

"I have been one of those who have been exceedingly reluctant to take strong action in dealing with affairs in Mexico. I have sympathized with the view of the president that we should resort to all proper means in advance to prevent the situation from developing into a situation of intervention or war, but I must confess that I see no hope ahead of us at this time except through that means."

Senators on the other side are contending that the intervention demand is an attack upon the president and are denouncing it upon that theory alone. But senators, that is not the question to be determined. It is not a question whether the president of the United States is right or wrong. The question is—and we should assume the responsibility of it—what shall be done by the American government in order to protect its citizens in Mexico?"

Not Allied with Villa. "The senator from Missouri (Mr. Stone)," said Senator Fall, "asks if it is the intention of senators on this side to ally themselves with Pancho Villa, with Zapata, with other revolutionaries and bandits in Mexico, against the recognized government. I answer, sir, most emphatically for myself, no, and that when the senator voted so to ally himself on April 21, 1914, he intended to do what he was doing, and I denounce him when he makes an alliance as I denounce it now."

Senator Stone interrupted Senator Fall:

"The senator said that I had proposed to make an alliance with Villa and Zapata," said Senator Stone. "I do not recall that I ever made any."

"The senator voted to ratify the action of the president of the United States in sending armed forces to Vera Cruz, as he and as the president himself said later," said Senator Stone. "I do not recall that I ever made any."

THE DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.
Met at noon.
Senator Cummins introduced bill to reorganize and increase the national guard.
Senator Works, Republican, introduced a resolution for armed intervention in Mexico.
Adjourned at 4:40 p. m. to noon Monday.

HOUSE.
Met at noon.
Adjourned at 5 p. m. to noon Saturday.

In here with reference to Carranza, the senator from Missouri (Mr. Stone) will be astounded that this government could ever have seen fit to recognize Carranza as a first chief or in any other position of authority.

Says He Gave Warning. "Mr. President, a president of the United States has been more than once warned as to what the result would be with reference to the loss of American life if even he continued a policy which was inaugurated by his predecessors in office of allowing Mexican troops of one faction to go through the boundaries of the United States and attack troops of another faction."

"I myself two years ago, in a most respectful letter to the president, through the action of his predecessor, Mr. Taft, in allowing the Madero soldiers to go through our borders upon our trains and to attack Orozco and other revolutionaries at different points had resulted in the outrage of American lives, in the outrage of American women, and in the holding for ransom of American men."

Places Blame on Wilson. Senator Fall aroused the senate when he declared that President Wilson was responsible for the murder of the Americans killed at Madera on Monday.

"I can say now," he said, "that the unfortunate action of the president of the United States in not only recognizing the Carranza government, but in actively assisting that government with arms, as he is doing, and with guarding his troops containing 5,000 soldiers proceed from El Paso to Agua Prieta, with our borders, guarded by our own military against attack by both our own wise—I say to you now, with all due sense of the import of my words, that that mistaken action of the president of the United States is responsible for the death of the seventeen Americans in Chihuahua."

Villa had been the pet of the United States. The senator from Missouri is again mistaken in his facts when he says that when there was a recognition of Carranza the government with arms, as he is doing, and with guarding his troops containing 5,000 soldiers proceed from El Paso to Agua Prieta, with our borders, guarded by our own military against attack by both our own wise—I say to you now, with all due sense of the import of my words, that that mistaken action of the president of the United States is responsible for the death of the seventeen Americans in Chihuahua."

Tells of Villa's Struggle. "Villa traveled across mountains for 200 or 300 miles with no source of supplies, with the last hundred miles practically a burning trail of destruction. He climbed mountain peaks."

Arriving at Agua Prieta, he found he was facing veteran troops who had been delivered in Agua Prieta by the American government while he was ending his way through these mountains and across the plains.

When he attacked he was repulsed by the artillery company at whose plant in El Paso a strike is in progress, conferred yesterday with Minister of Chihuahua, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, who is preparing a report on the case to Washington.

Will Report on Valve Strike. Representatives of the Edwards Valve Manufacturing company, at whose plant in El Paso a strike is in progress, conferred yesterday with Minister of Chihuahua, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, who is preparing a report on the case to Washington.

Now, Mr. President, I say that if you

by your action drive a bloody murderer like Villa to murder American citizens you are responsible for the murder, and you cannot shrink it by appealing to non-partisan discussion."

Lewis Plea for Resolution. Senator Lewis of Illinois followed Senator Fall, advocating the passage of his resolution directing President Wilson to use the army in Mexico as he has the navy in Haiti.

"The distinguished senator from New Mexico," he said, "says that upon the head of this administration now rests the responsibility for the murder of these Americans."

Truly, as the distinguished senator from Missouri (Mr. Stone) has said, for years, under two administrations, Mexico has remained like a cauldron, in revolution of fire and flame. The people were engaged in these conflicts ceaselessly.

"When this administration sought to maintain peace and not violate our honorable relations with our neighbors, in accordance with our promise to guarantee them every form of protection that could be afforded without incurring ourselves upon their institutions or government, what did our honorable opponents on the other side give?"

"The distinguished senator from Massachusetts (Mr. Lodge) arises this morning and presents a resolution which is the copy of one, he says—and his words are sufficient—a copy of one he presented some years past touching our entering into Mexico. The distinguished senator from New Mexico (Mr. Fall), in support of the senator from Massachusetts, cites what could have been done and we paid more heed to Villa and less to Huerta."

"L" STUB STAYS, MASTER RULES

City Loses First Move in Market Street Structure Fight.

NOW UP TO KOHLASAAT.

The city lost yesterday in its fight before Master in Chancery Charles B. Morrison to compel the Chicago and Oak Park elevated road to remove the elevated structure in Market street known as the Market street stub.

In his report to the court Master Morrison holds that the city without legal power to order the stub removed. His conclusions read:

"That the city ordinance of May 15, 1903, granting the Lake Street Elevated road the right to construct, maintain, and operate for fifty years the elevated structure in Market street from Madison street to Lake street in now in full force and effect, and the railroad company and the receivers are entitled to maintain and operate it."

"That the city ordinance of Oct. 5, 1914, declaring that all rights granted to the railroad company to occupy Market street with its elevated structure should cease to be null and void."

The report now goes to Judge Kohlstaet for final disposition.

GOVERNMENT SETS STATE FREE OF HOOV EMBARGO.

Only Libertyville Township Remains Subject to Restricted Quarantine Order in Illinois.

One more step toward reviving Chicago's live stock industry, which has been demoralized ever since the imposition of the foot and mouth quarantine on Oct. 31, 1914, was taken yesterday when the federal government released practically all Illinois from the disease embargo.

Libertyville township in Lake county is the only territory in the state still affected by the quarantine, and even this is changed from a closed to a restricted area by the government order, which becomes effective today.

While this does not yet throw open the trading and feeding end of the cattle industry, which in normal times comprises about 15 per cent of the business at the stockyards, it is expected that an order releasing shipments of live stock for trading will be issued within the next month.

SETTLE FINANCIAL DETAILS FOR GIGANTIC OIL MERGER.

Amalgamation of Several Companies Into $150,000,000 Corporation Reaches Contract Signing Stage.

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Practically all of the details for the formation of a great $150,000,000 oil merger, headed by the Mexican Petroleum company as the center of all the other concerns, have been completed with the exception of the formal signing of the contracts.

The merger is one of the largest oil amalgamations which have been put through since the original Standard Oil company with all its underlying subsidiaries was formed. The new company will be known as the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company and will have outstanding $150,000,000 in stocks and bonds.

GOSSIP OF BOOKS OF THE DAY

Chalmers' Tribute to the Late Dr. Trudeau.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

OWING the Autobiography of Dr. Trudeau comes a little volume called, "THE BELOVED PHYSICIAN," by Stephen Chalmers (Houghton-Mifflin). The introduction to this book is in Dr. Trudeau's own words, being an extract from his last delivered address, "The Value of Optimism in Medicine," which was delivered at the Eighth Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons in 1910. It is written while the doctor lay on a bed of suffering and delivered at a time when he was hardly able to stand up before his colleagues. Optimism, he told his hearers, had enabled him more than anything else to accomplish what he had been able to do, and there were times when it was about the only resource he had left. Optimism he described as a mixture of faith and imagination. "It means energy, hardihood and achievement. Optimism means apathy, ease and inaction. Optimism may, and often does, point to a road that is hard to travel, or to one that leads nowhere, but optimism points to no road at all." Dr. Trudeau was only 25 years of age when he left New York for the Adirondacks. He was told that he had but six months to live, and if he had stayed in New York he probably would have lived any longer than that. But in the Adirondacks, he lived for twenty-two years. The guide who carried Dr. Trudeau upstairs when he arrived at Paul Smith's, described his burden as "weighty no more than a lamb skin." The same guide lived to see that light-weight defeat the local champion in a Markwood fight.

Robert Louis Stevenson was one of the best known of Dr. Trudeau's patients. Stevenson was not only a patient, but even to be a warm personal friend of the doctor, and on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the sanitarium, he wrote some verses which were planned on Dr. Trudeau's pillow, and added much to the happiest occasion in his life. As Stevenson tells the story:

"Do you know," Dr. Trudeau said, when we shook hands, "writing verses is something beyond my comprehension. I understand poetry, but not how one can write it. My case is like that of Zeb. Zeb, a crude over at Paul's. He was asked by some ladies he was rowing the name of a certain mountain up here. 'That's Amerasia,' said Zeb. 'But, you know, how do you spell it?' 'Ah,' said Zeb, 'that's the hell of it, ma'am, I can think it easy enough, but I couldn't spell it to save my life!' That's how I feel about poetry."

Correspondent Thinks Russia Will Win.

BY JEANNETTE L. GILDER.

OU probably remember that some time ago I wrote about Mr. Stanley Washburn's "Field Notes from the Russian Front." Mr. Washburn is the special correspondent of the London Times with a Russian assignment. His latest book is called "THE RUSSIAN CAMPAIGN, APRIL TO AUGUST, 1916," (Harcourt). It is illustrated with twenty-four striking photographs by George H. Moore taken originally for the London Daily Mirror. After nearly a year with the Russian army in their advance and in their retreat, Mr. Washburn's faith in Russia's future is as strong today as it was six months ago.

In his introduction Mr. Washburn tells us that many of his friends urged him not to publish this second volume of field notes on the ground that the fortunes of Russia and the Russian army were on the wane, and that the optimism he had always felt had proved itself unfounded by recent events. It is because conditions in Russia are for the moment unfavorable that he is glad to publish this book as an indication of his faith and belief in the common soldiers and officers of an army with which he has been associated for nearly a year. He has been associated for nearly a year. He has been associated for nearly a year. He has been associated for nearly a year.

An exceptionally interesting chapter in Mr. Washburn's book is devoted to the American doctor in the Russian army. In it, he writes, a far cry from the city of Seattle to the state of Washington, U. S. A. to the little village of Belyi in the Polish government of Suwalki, but it is a "jump" that one must make to follow the career of Dr. Eugene Hurd, the only American surgeon attached to the Russian Red Cross work in the field in this war.

Up to last August Dr. Hurd was a practicing surgeon in Seattle, a member of the state legislature, and spoken of as the coming mayor of the town. "When he strolled casually into my room at Warsaw in the uniform of a Russian colonel, who spoke not a word of any language

Verhaeren Mourns for His Ruined Belgium.

BY ELLEN FITZGERALD.

OR years the spirit of Belgium has come to us in the poetry of Verhaeren. He is a new old man; his country is a ruin. What can inspire him but the tragedy which he tries to express in "BELGIUM'S AGONY"? It is a mild hymn of hate; it will add nothing to the poet's fame. It is not written for that, but for the subject's sake. Three untranslated poems—"LA HELIQUE BANLAUTE," "CHUX DE LIEGE," "GUILLAMME II"—are three phases of this rebuke to Germany. The first one is philosophical in tone, peace and German aggression; the second is descriptive of the Belgians' brave stand at Liege. This is energetic and has a real martial touch. As for the poem on Germany's emperor, if Verhaeren had remembered how Goethe refused to write his kind of poetry during Napoleon's wars, saying, "I am an old man; I cannot hate," he would have spared himself the writing of it.

For Verhaeren is a great poet. It is not therefore a subject like this which will inspire him. Stephen Phillips has poems on these subjects and sometimes strikes a strong note in them. "An European dawn with radder wing" is his beautiful expression, both literally and symbolically, of the morning before the battle of Mons. Verhaeren does not put this poetic largeness into these war poems, though there is a deep touch in "CHUX DE LIEGE" in the refrain: "Jamais sous le soleil, une âme s'oublie. C'est qui sont morts pour le monde la, 'has a Liege."

The prose portion of this book is well worth reading. The translation is well done. Verhaeren speaks feelingly to his countrymen, begging them not to dwell on their misery, but to plan a new Belgium.

"As ever, we Belgians shall be young and keen. Until today our nation has known no danger. We were too sure of the morrow. We lived like rich people who had no knowledge of want."

It seems that before this sudden baptism of fire we were hardly a nation at all. We frittered away our strength in petty squabbles; we argued over words instead of facts. Danger rather than safety has been our cure. We have discovered ourselves. This speaks a great Belgian; the poet is greater still. His poetry written years ago will plead more for Belgium, more for the integrity of every small country, than these verses which do not make great sorrow more sorrowful. It is poets like Rens, Segers, and Verhaeren who make poetry immortal. It is they who show the foolishness of empire. May the old poet live to see his country again.

AFTER FOUR YEARS GILLET VISITS HIS CHILDREN TODAY

Father Will Motor to Lake Forest This Morning—Has No Plans to Regain Their Affection.

Charles W. Gillett Jr. and his little sister Elizabeth will visit with their father today for the first time in four years. As a result of the decree entered in court Thursday by Judge Smith, Mr. Gillett will motor to Lake Forest this morning and meet them.

During the hours between 12 and 3 Mr. Gillett, according to the decree, will have the children in his complete charge and control free from espionage. The father, his attorneys say, has no particular plan covering what steps he will take to regain the affection of his children. Mr. Gillett refused to discuss the visit yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryant have postponed their trip to Florida until Jan. 25 in order that Mr. Gillett may have the opportunity of seeing the children more than once before their departure to the Bryant winter home at Palm Beach.

FUNKHOUSER TRIES TO END ALLEGED BAGGAGE HOLDUP.

Cousin of Second Deputy Governor Arrested of Expressman Accused of Leaving Extra Charge.

E. R. Funkhouser, president of the Keller & Foreman company, rubber goods, caused the arrest yesterday of C. J. Flannery of 1831 South Harding avenue, an expressman.

Mr. Funkhouser, who is a cousin of Second Deputy M. L. C. Funkhouser, said he hired Flannery to haul his trunk from the railroad station to his home, 2222 Garrison avenue, for $1.50. The next day the Brinks Express company delivered the trunk and the driver demanded $1.00, saying the trunk had been turned over to his company by Flannery and was marked "collect."

"Seventy-five cents would have been a good price, anyway," said Mr. Funkhouser. "I hope my action will stop this sort of thing." Flannery denied he had ordered a "collect" charge.

OPERA PERFORMANCE PLAN FOR ITALIAN RED CROSS.

Proceeds of Benefit Arranged by Campanini to Go Also to Mrs. Page's Workroom.

On Sunday evening, Jan. 23, there is to be given at the Auditorium a benefit performance arranged by Sig. Campanini and several of the opera stars. The proceeds are to be divided between the Italian Red Cross and the workroom in Rome which is conducted by Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, wife of the United States ambassador, and other American women. Count Giulio Bolognini, the Italian consul in Chicago, is working hard, and Mrs. Bryant Leathers, sister-in-law of Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page, is chairman of the committee.

Found Guilty of Murder. Judge Judge Barrett's court yesterday returned a verdict finding Recco Costantini guilty of murder, fixing his punishment at imprisonment for fourteen years. In the same verdict Alfonso Panzavolta was acquitted. The man was tried for the murder of Joseph Horta, a schoolmaster, who was stabbed and robbed of $200.

Why the German Fleet Does Not Come Out and Fight

The taunts of the English press about the inactivity of the German fleet seem to have aroused the German editors to set before the people of the Fatherland the work which the Kaiser's battleships have done, and are doing, in the war. Three of the most influential papers in Germany have simultaneously devoted no small amount of space to "special reports from the High Sea Fleet."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for January 15th are printed translations of the most significant parts of these reports. The article is illustrated by a photographic reproduction of a painting made for the foremost illustrated paper in Germany "To Show Patriotic Germans a British Cruiser in Flight." These articles in this issue of "The Digest" also hold great interest for the American public:

In Chicago, In New York, In Every City, You Will Find That This Is True:

The quality of any magazine can be gauged by the class of people who read it regularly. The next time you enter a street car take careful note of the man or woman who reads THE LITERARY DIGEST and you will agree with us that the quality of the magazine is accurately reflected in its reader. The class of people who read THE LITERARY DIGEST every week are the men and women who are doing the big things in this country today—thoughtful people to whom life means much, and who are making the most out of life.

There are many reasons why more than 1,500,000 people are reading THE LITERARY DIGEST regularly every week. There are many reasons why you should be among this number. If you are not, stop at the nearest news-stand and buy a copy and you will clearly see how THE LITERARY DIGEST will fit your demands. Why not do this today?

RETURN HASKELL TO SCHOOL JOB, COMMITTEE SAYS

Carter Harrison's Angling Chum
Recommended to Board
Despite Record.

William H. Haskell, old Indian fighter and fishing partner of former Mayor Carter Harrison, was returned to his $2,000 job as assistant superintendent of construction of the board of education yesterday by the buildings and grounds committee. The action carries with it some unusual transactions.

Mr. Haskell attained some prominence when the board found him guilty of approving work on the Harrison Technical High school which was not up to the specifications. He was fined, but went back to work. Then on June 9, 1915, the board laid him off as a matter of economy. The action was to become effective July 1.

Asks for Leave of Absence.
Later in June Mr. Haskell went to Michael J. Collins, who was then president of the board, and asked for a six months' leave of absence, to become effective on the date he was to be laid off. Mr. Collins told the board that he granted the leave of absence, although there is no mention of it in the records of the board. On Jan. 1 Mr. Haskell returned to work.

He has not yet gone to work. The action of the committee will first have to be approved by the whole board. A long session was held several days ago on the question with some bitter words both for and against Mr. Haskell. An agreement finally was reached. The recommendation of the committee reads that the period of his employment shall not exceed four months.

EMERY S. WALKER SUES POLICEMAN FOR A DOLLAR.

Attorney Intends to Use Result of Suit in Charges That Patrolman
Phillips Abused Him.

Emery S. Walker, an attorney in the Edison building, filed suit for $1 yesterday in the Superior court against Police Officer William P. Phillips of the Cottage Grove avenue station. He charged Phillips with attacking him without provocation on Sept. 4. He had been arrested at Twenty-sixth street and Wabash avenue after refusing to give another policeman his name.

At the Union League club last night Mr. Walker said that he did not seek greater damages because he wanted to win the suit merely to use it against the policeman's record. He charged the police department with suppressing his charges, and said that Phillips, in a letter to Chief of Police Healey yesterday said:

"If after a hearing, my statements had been discarded, I should have retired without further complaint. However, the suit I have instituted in the Superior court against Phillips is to help decent policemen who take care of prisoners instead of mistreating them, as well as to further public welfare."

OUR PROBLEM WITH MEXICO!

Capt. Henry J. Kelly, military expert of The Tribune, tomorrow will discuss from a military standpoint what intervention (at this time necessarily invasion) would mean to the United States. The article will contain about 2,500 words and will be accompanied by a map illustrative of the various strategic points which would be at issue in the event of invasion. The Mexican question is uppermost in the minds of Americans. Capt. Kelly pictures conditions as he knows them from personal observation and study, and shows clearly just what must be done if Uncle Sam undertakes a campaign to bring about complete restoration of order in Mexico. # HEAVY SELLING IN GRAIN MARKET CAUSES DECLINE

Buying Support Is Apathetic;
Longs In Corn and Oats
Take Profits Freely.

The wheat market was heavy yesterday. The buying demand was less urgent, while sentiment appeared to be more bearish. Liverpool cables were higher, but foreign news continues of a conflict character, in one measure broadening action in waiting for government action to relieve buyers of the necessity of paying such high prices. The cost of wheat is being forced to high levels abroad mainly because of the greed of the vessel owners.

The market here for American railroads, but the close losses of 5/16 to 1/2. Cash prices were weak relative to the futures, and winter wheat 1/16 lower relative to May than the previous day. Liverpool prices were 1/16 up.

Cash Demand Is Moderate.
The cash demand here was moderate. Sales were $100,000, including a little business for export. The seaboard claimed sales of $600,000, but this was understood to have been transactions between exporters. At the Gulf there were fair offerings and the bids were called 1/16 up out of line. Canadian wheat is being sold for export all rail to the seaboard and from present indications there will be a free movement throughout the winter season until navigation opens.

Small Receipts Northwest.
Receipts in the northwest have been retarded by the unfavorable weather conditions. Arrivals at Minneapolis and Duluth for the day were 186 cars, compared to 402 cars a year ago. Minneapolis receipts, compared to a year ago, were 146 cars, compared to 1,340 cars a year ago for the week and Duluth gained 220 cars for five days. It is expected there will be a fair increase in the visible again on Monday, with the total larger than a year ago.

Australian shipments for the week were larger than expected at 1,136,000 bu. Argentina shipped 370,000 bu. Australian marketing conditions are favorable. Receipts were 78 cars, with primary arrivals of 67,000 bu, compared to 670,000 bu a year ago. Clearances for the day were 1,054,000 bu.

Corn Has Big Decline.
Highest corn prices were made right at the start, after which there was free selling and a break of 1/16 from the top. A little rally occurred near the close, with cash prices 1/16 up to 1/2 higher. Cash prices were 1/16 lower, and increased offerings were reported from the country. Cash sales were 220,000 bu, part for export. Weather conditions the last few days have been the best of the season for conditioning corn, and the general country sentiment appears to be more bullish. Country speculators who made big profits on the long side, in many instances are now inclined to sell on all the hard spots.

Cables were in the market and there was good demand on the other side, with freights strong at a further advance. Receipts were 290 cars, with primary receipts of 678,000 bu, against 1,000,000 bu a year ago. Clearances for the week were 2,708,000 bu.

Oats Advance Is Checked.
Oats started strong with moderate sales, but the advance was met by free selling. The demand proved inadequate for the offerings, and resting prices showed net declines for the day of 1/16 to 1/2. Cash prices were 1/16 lower, with sales of 140,000 bu. There was a little export business. Offerings were 190 cars, with primary receipts of 588,000 bu, against 500,000 bu a year ago. Clearances for the day were 208,000 bu.

Hog products were weak at the close. The buying demand was less urgent. The general trade was in the market for receipts of hogs were $1.00, with the same number expected today. Prices at the yards were 20c lower at the close. Live hog receipts are expected the coming week. Receipts of hogs for the week were 83,200, compared to 73,200 a year ago. Meat prices at Liverpool were unchanged, while hogs were 1/4c. Receipts of products here were 47 cars, with shipments of 200 cars. Clearances for the day were 208,000 bu.

Live Market Steady.
Rye had a market steady. No. 1 and No. 2 was quoted at 90c nominal. Receipts were 4 cars. Barley was firm, with sales of malting at 70c and screenings 6c. Receipts, 7 cars.
